

To Residents of Posey County:

On behalf of Posey Solar Project, we apologize for the confusion surrounding our geotech and piling tests that started in late July. While we shared information about this study work with affected project landowners, we understand this activity raised concerns with neighbors and others in the community. Going forward, we will post information about field work that supports the development of the solar project on our website (<https://poseysolarproject.com/>) and Facebook page (<https://www.facebook.com/PoseySolarProject/>). We are also working with project landowners to improve communication with tenant farmers.

Even more importantly, we apologize for the few instances where our contractor mistakenly entered land not leased to Posey Solar Project. Mistake or not, trespassing is not acceptable – period. When we learned that this happened, we halted all testing work and scrutinized the process in place with our contractor to carry out this study work. We have implemented further protocols as to how and where this work is done.

We are committed to making this right with neighbors whose land was improperly entered. We have been in contact with the neighbor who is known to us as having experienced this, and we ask anyone else whose property was mistakenly entered to contact local representative Stacy Wagner so we can address this issue. Stacy can be reached at stacy@poseysolarproject.com or 812-573-0032.

We hold ourselves to a higher standard, and we are disappointed with this situation. We are learning from this experience and are committed to being a good business neighbor in Posey County.

Sincerely,

Josh Chavez
